Paper-V: Western Political Thought

Topic: Western Political Thinkers: Socrates, Plato and Aristotle's views on Ideas.

Socrates believed that it is not enough to know what constitutes life, rather it is more important to know what constitutes 'good life' or 'virtuous life'. 'Objective of life is to lead 'good life. 'In order to lead good life, we should have 'the knowledge' of 'good life. Plato described his ideal State as an oligarchic political system, where a few enlightened philosophers are destined to govern. Aristotle preferred a mixture of aristocratic and democratic governance.

The theory is also known as the Theory of Forms. According to this theory, the physical world is just a reflection of a higher realm of unchangeable ideas or forms. These ideas represent the ultimate reality.

Planning, Organizing, Staffing, Directing, Co-Ordinating, Reporting and Budgeting (POSDCORB) is an acronym widely used in the field of management and public administration that reflects the classic view of organizational theory.^[1] It appeared most prominently in a 1937 paper by Luther Gulick (in a set edited by himself and Lyndall Urwick). However, he first presented the concept in 1935.^[2] Initially, POSDCORB was envisioned in an effort to develop public service professionals.
